

GSHPA response to Government announcement that Net Zero target by 2050 has become enshrined in law

27th June 2019

In response to this week's announcement from Government that the net zero emissions target has become enshrined in law, Bean Beanland, Chairman of the Ground Source Heat Pump Association said: "Our members are very pleased that the Government not only recognises the importance of meeting the net zero target, but has gone one step further in making it legally binding and is the first major economy to do so. Heating and cooling in buildings accounts for a large proportion of the UK's carbon emissions and ground source heat pumps will play a key role in delivering against the target."

For further information on the GSHPA, visit: www.gshp.org.uk

Media contacts:

Bean Beanland, Chairman: bean.beanland@gshp.org.uk / 07393 399685

Paul Taylor, Taylor Keogh Communications: paul@taylorkeogh.com / 020 8392 8250